Key points

- Countries face unprecedented climate change challenges that require new thinking and a proper cross-sectoral & multi-stakeholder effort, esp. when hazards occur within a short time span, leading to compound and cascading risks, surpassing the capacities of some countries, especially SIDS and LDCs.
- Countries invite partners to see the opportunities for collaboration in the NAPs
- Examples of the kinds of needs for technical assistance presented by countries include support in multistakeholder engagement; data collection/assessments; support in climate change observation and modeling of impacts, as well as support for building enabling environments such as the legislative framework
- Conversations will be taken forward in the follow up to the event
- Countries are invited to submit requests for technical assistance to un4naps@unfccc.int
